Features:

- Aims and scope: AADM is a general mathematical journal. Not excluding other fields, it is concentrated around areas such as classical mathematical analysis, functional analysis, differential and difference equations, special functions, combinatorics and graph theory, mathematical applications in probability and statistics, numerical analysis and computer science. Submissions dealing with applications in other sciences or in real-world problems are welcome provided that they focus on mathematics rather than on application itself.

- Peer refereeing: i) Each contribution will be reviewed by members of editorial board and peer-reviewed (blind peer-reviewed) refereed by experts in the corresponding field.

- Waiting time: As a rule, within six months from a submission, the corresponding author will be informed about the first decision regarding the paper (rejected, change required, accepted). If the paper needs a revision, the revised file is sent again to referees, and further waiting time till the final decision can vary, depending on a particular case. Shortly after the paper is accepted, it will be posted on the web site with a digital object identifier (DOI) assigned.

- How to submit: Please see the title "for authors" for more details.
